WHEREAS, cockfighting is the national sport of the Philippines. It cannot be denied that it has and will always be part of the culture of the Filipinos. It has also become an industry. There are thousands of breeders all over the country and hundreds of cockpits. Sales of the feed industries are in the billions of pesos. Hundreds of thousands of sabungeros depend on cockfighting as their source of livelihood. Because of the nature of cockfighting, the pandemic caused by COVID-19 has completely put a stop to cockfights in legitimate cockpits;

WHEREAS, Sta. Monica Cockpit was recently granted by the City Government a Special Use Permit to operate cockfighting as well as engage in live streaming of cockfights. It is one of the best (if not the best) cockpit in the whole country. It has gained its prestigious standing in the cockfighting industry for its high standard of credibility. It has recently renovated its premises to cope with the new health requirements brought about by COVID-19;

WHEREAS, if allowed to operate, SMC will institute the following mitigating features and health protocols that would be the "New Normal" of cockfighting;

1. The cockpit will operate on 10% audience participation excluding handlers of the participants and staff of the cockpit.
2. The "ulutan" or physical matching will no longer be allowed. All events will use the derby style of matching or by submission of weights.

There will be a maximum of 30 entries participating and a maximum of 60 fights per day to limit the exposure of the employees and participants.

3. The fights will proceed without an audience. Entries will be allowed 2 handlers who will stay at their respective cockhouses until fight time. They will not be allowed to roam around. Their meals will be provided from the canteen to prevent them from going out the cockpit.
4. Everyone entering the cockpit including employees, handlers and participants must sign a certification that he or she has no symptoms of COVID-19 and submit their complete address and contact number for contact tracing.
5. Shouting of bets will no longer be allowed. Instead bets would be cashless through an IT system using laptops or cell phone. The fights will be covered live and beamed through phone apps to participants.
